What Is SUPW In School?

SUPW stands for Socially Useful Productive Work. It's a program in many schools that teaches kids practical skills. Here's what it's all about:

SUPW helps students learn useful tasks they can do with their hands. It includes activities like cooking, sewing, gardening, and making crafts. The goal is to teach skills that can help at home and in the community. SUPW projects often focus on solving real problems or helping others. It's a way to learn outside of regular school subjects.

SUPW helps students become more well-rounded and ready for life after school."
